RESEARCH SERIES REPORT

The IQAC of the college organised online Research Series in four parts for the faculty members on the following dates 22 June, 30th June, 7th July, and 23rd July 2020 ,

Objective:

- To understand basics of research .
- To recognise the nature of research problem to be studied and identify the related area of knowledge/topics for research.

Resource Person: Dr Parvathi Venkatesh, (Academician and Principal -Don Bosco College Kurla.)

Topics covered :

- Research series –I

Basics of Research Meaning of research, Identifying research problem, literature review and contents, finding research gap, formulating research question, check list for good research, research author responsibilities, publishable and non publishable content, Ethical conduct and misconduct in research, data manipulation etc.

27 faculty members attended the session

- Research Series II - Writing Research Problem & (Online)

Reasoning strategies, research problem identification process, research proposal formulation, converting decision problem to research problem, research variables.

26 faculty members attended the webinar.

- Research Series III - Developing Hypothesis (Online)

On framing objectives and Hypothesis, Types of variables, contents of research proposal.

21 faculty members attended the session.

- Research Series IV - Framework on writing Literature Review

On Framework on writing Literature Review which covered the following topics: Meaning & relevance, process of conducting literature review. Steps of literature review : 1) , search for relevant literature, 2) Evaluation and selection of sources , 3) Identifying themes and gaps , 4) outline of review structure , 5) writing literature review and conclusion.

23 faculty members attended the session.

Outcome :

Participants were able to :

- a. Understand the specific topic of research, located within a broad understanding of the field of research

- b. Acquire the capacity to design, plan and conduct research projects
- c. Identify research topic for the study.

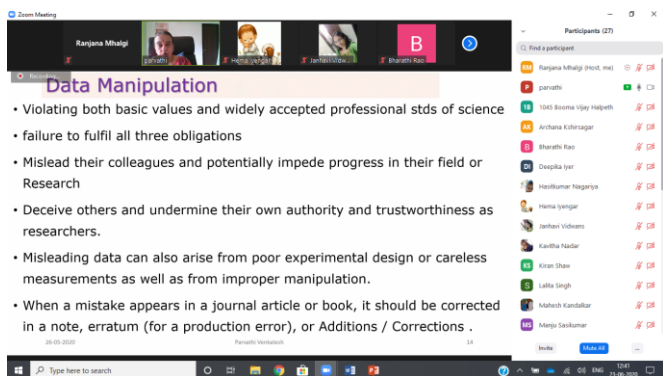

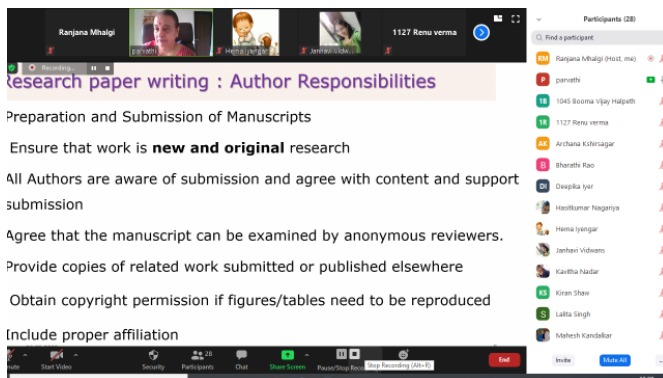

Feedback:

Excellent and very good Feedback was received relating to coverage of topics, contents, time allotment and facilitating skills .

Overall feedback was excellent, well organised and informative session.

Components of a well defined problem

1. Unit of Analysis : Refers to Source of information – can be an individual, department, organisation or an industry.
2. Research variables – i.e. a symbol to which we assign numerical / values.

Can be dichotomous variable (male / female) or discrete variable. (of indefinite sets like occupation, age, income, production data.....)

Categories of research variables
Dependent variable (DV)	Independent variable (IV)	Moderating variable (MV)	Intervening variable (IV)	Extraneous variable (EV)

Step 4: Outline of literature review's structure

- A rough idea of strategy on various approaches is needed before starting writing.
- Depending on the length of literature review, several strategies can be combined. (for example, overall structure might be thematic, but each theme is discussed chronologically).
- Chronological : The simplest approach is to trace the development of the topic over time. However, if this strategy is chosen, care needed to avoid simply listing and summarizing sources in order.
- For example Patterns can be analyzed as well, turning points and key debates that have shaped the direction of the field. Interpretation made on how and why certain developments occurred.
- Thematic : If some recurring central themes found, the literature review can be organized into subsections that address different aspects of the topic. For example, while reviewing literature about inequalities in migrant health outcomes, key themes might include healthcare policy, language barriers, cultural attitudes, legal status, and economic access.
- Methodological : If sources are drawn from different disciplines or fields that use a variety of research methods, the results and conclusions that emerge from different approaches can be compared. For example:
- Looking at what results have emerged in qualitative and quantitative research.
- Discussion on how the topic has been approached by empirical versus theoretical scholarship.
- The literature can be divided into sociological, historical, and cultural sources.
- Theoretical : A literature review is often the foundation for a theoretical framework. Various theories, models, and definitions of key concepts can be discussed.
- The relevance of a specific theoretical approach, or combine various theoretical concepts can be argued to create a framework for research.

Entrepreneurship Development Cell

Report

Online Workshop - Rural Entrepreneurship

March 06, 2021: An online workshop for motivating and promoting rural entrepreneurship and preparation of business plan was conducted on 6th March, 2021 under IAI in collaboration with Rural Entrepreneurship Development Cell of Mahatma Gandhi National Council of Rural Education. The resource person for the workshop was Dr. Khushboo Hotchandani who is an assistant professor in the above mentioned institute. 43 students from BMS attended the session.

The session started with an introduction on rural entrepreneurship development and a brief glimpse of the role and achievements of Mahatma Gandhi National Council for Rural Education. Dr. Khushboo explained to the students about effectuation. It means a thinking frame work which focuses on do-able and feasible products. She further spoke about the significance of rural engagement, rural entrepreneurship and rural management.

Dr. Khusboo spoke about the REDC business platform which aims at providing guidance to the students for innovative business plans at national level. The speaker remarked on the importance of business growth in rural areas for its development. Organisations with capabilities have a responsibility to support and encourage rural entrepreneurship which would play an essential role in nation building. She also shared a few examples. In one case, a student who was from a rural area had attended her session. She wanted to make chocolates from jaggery. With the necessary support she started the business with minimum capital that she possessed. She also introduced a few changes to make her chocolates more nutritious.

Then the speaker encouraged the students to share their entrepreneurial ideas. This received a lot of input from the students. She explained about the 'REDC Business Plan' form in detail. This form was provided to the students to develop their business ideas. The form would help REDC to guide the students with feasible ideas to make better business plans. The session ended with a photograph of the students and faculty present .
