Refrigerators, Washing Machine, Cooking appliances, Air conditioners, Vacuum cleaners

TV/AV

* Price

Samsung is a market leader in smart phones and is a dominant player in market for home appliances. It uses two pricing schemes which are

Skimming Price

Samsung uses skimming price policy. For instance, when Samsung launches new products with different variants of storage capacity, it prices the product higher. But when other competitors launch a smartphone, Samsung lowers the price & easily prevents the reduction of its market share due to the launch of the competitor.

Competitive Pricing

This pricing strategy is a part of Samsung launching new products with different variants of storage capacity. Samsung is a trustworthy brand, but in the 'home appliances' product - category, it hasn't surpassed LG yet. To prevent the flanking attacks from its competitors in the market it's essential for Samsung to use competitive pricing. Also, Samsung is not a first mover in these product categories and thus it has to defend its position in the market. All these help in understanding the pricing strategy in the Samsung marketing mix.

* Place

Samsung sells directly to the retailers & service dealers. And due to this strategy, only service dealers are responsible for the corporate sales. Retailers dealing in technology generally have to include Samsung in their offerings, because of the brand being world famous. The distribution is the strength for Samsung. Samsung also distributes its products using a single distribution company in a particular location that further distributes the products to other locations.

* Promotion

Promotion is a strong pillar in the marketing mix of the company. Samsung believes that advertising is the best form of promotion to engage potential consumers & position the brand. Samsung promotes new products using news-papers & digital media. To take the advantage of the huge number of followers of celebrities, the brand has invited many celebrities to be the brand ambassadors & promote the product. Big placards, hoarding & posters are put up on highways.

Besides advertising, Samsung also uses different promotional tactics to make customers buy the product. Samsung is mostly famous for its product quality & user experience but Samsung is also known for being a giant in sponsoring events. Samsung also sponsors major events. Samsung offers heavy discounts during national festivals.

This concludes the Samsung marketing mix analysis

TOPIC : Theory of Motivation

Q1) Maslow's Need Hierarchy Theory of Motivation

→ * Introduction :-

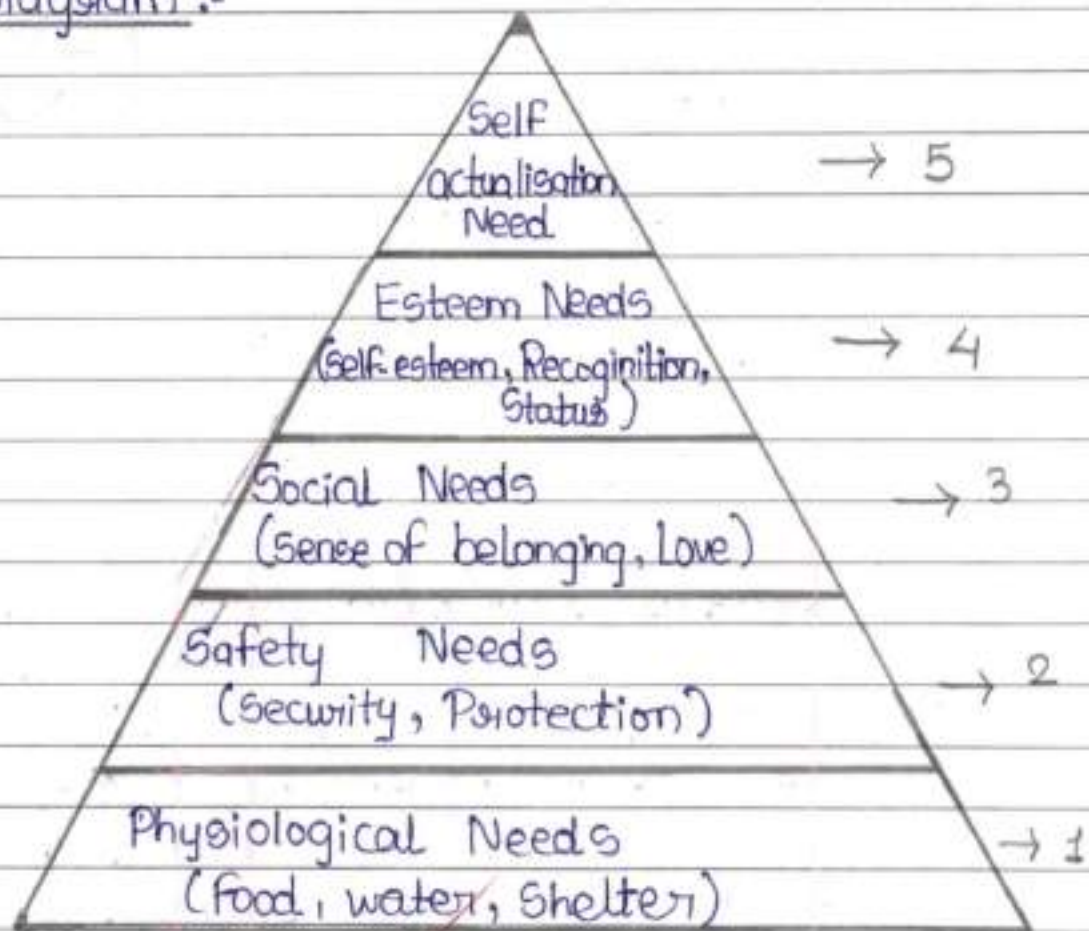

Abraham Harold Maslow was an American psychologist who is best known for his Need Hierarchy Theory of motivation. In 1943, Abraham Maslow propounded that people are motivated by five basic needs, which he called the hierarchy of needs. These needs he compared to a pyramid, which has primary needs at the base and which are universal, rising in step to the highest need, which is the least felt need.

Human behaviour is goal-directed. Motivation causes goal-directed behaviour. It through motivation that needs can be handled and tackled purposely. This can be understood by understanding the hierarchy of needs by manager. The needs of individual serve as a driving force in human behaviour. Therefore, a manager must understand the

"Hierarchy of Needs"

* Diagram :-

* Explanation :-

- a). Physiological Needs : Physiological needs include the basic needs of food, clothing, shelter, water, sleep, etc. These needs are universal and must be satisfied in order to motivate the workers to work.
- b). Safety and Security Needs : After physiological needs, safety / security needs become prominent. Safety needs include job security, pension plans, insurance plans, provident funds, gratuity, medical grants and other social security measures.

- c). Social Needs : Social Needs include friendship, belongingness, affection, social acceptance, etc. These needs can be fulfilled by having formal or informal work groups, company sponsored activities, social and cultural programmes, etc.
- d). Esteem Needs : Self-esteem needs includes the need for self-confidence, self-respect, achievements and independence. These needs can be satisfied by having status, power, goodwill and recognition in the form of awards and promotion.
- e). Self-actualisation Needs : Maslow calls this as achieving one's highest potential or to be what one wants to be. It can be satisfied by assigning challenging tasks or offering new avenues of growth and self-development to the employees.

* Criticisms of the Theory

- a). Maslow's assumptions of 'need hierarchy' does not hold true because each person has plenty of needs to be satisfied, which may not necessarily follow Maslow's needs hierarchy.
- b). There is a considerable disordering among the physiological needs, safety needs and esteem needs. For example : Many people do not care for job security (security needs) but care for the social needs.

- c). There are several such examples where people have reached self-actualisation need without craving for the lower level needs. For example, Mahatma Gandhi never craved for lower needs but still could reach the highest need.
- d). Given Maslow's 'Need Hierarchy', human wants can never be satisfied. They keep on increasing which is beyond the capacity of the organisation to fulfil.
- e). There is lack of cause and effect relationship between the need and the behaviour.
- f). This is only an empirical theory, which has not been scientifically tested.
- g). "The theory failed to cover certain motivating factors like experience."

Q2) Frederick Herzberg's Two Factor Theory

→ * Introduction:

Frederick Loring Herzberg was an American psychologist who became one of the most influential names in business management. He is most famous for introducing job enrichment and the Motivation - Hygiene theory. Two factor theory of Motivation was propounded by Frederick Herzberg and his associates conducted a research, which consisted of an intensive analysis of the experience.

Fredrick Herzberg and feelings of two hundred engineers and accountants in (1923 - 2000) nine different companies in the Pittsburgh area, U.S.A. They undertook a structured interview in which these respondents were asked to describe a few previous job experiences in which they felt 'Exceptionally Good' or 'Exceptionally Bad' about their jobs. While concluding the information collected from the interview, Herzberg remarked that there are two categories of needs, essentially independent of each other, affecting the behaviour of the employees. He classified these needs as follows:

* Explanation :

1. Maintenance or Hygiene factors : These are some job conditions, which operates primarily to dissatisfy the employees when such conditions are absent but their presence does not motivate them in a strong way. Such conditions were identified as maintenance or hygiene factors.

According to Herzberg, there are ten maintenance or hygiene factors. These factors do not motivate the employees at all but their absence cause dissatisfaction. They are as follows :

- Company policies and administration
- Technical supervision
- Interpersonal relationship with supervisors
- Interpersonal relationship with peers
- Interpersonal relationship with subordinates
- Salary
- Job security
- Personal life
- Working conditions
- Status

b) Motivational factors : There are some job conditions, which operate primarily to build a strong motivation and high job satisfaction but their absence severely proves strongly dissatisfying. Unlike hygiene factors, motivational factors have positive and long lasting, effect on the employees performance and are related to the work itself.

According to Herzberg, there are six motivational factors:

- Achievement, i.e., satisfaction derived from the work itself
- Recognition, i.e., recognition of achievements by the superiors
- Responsibility, i.e., giving more authority
- Opportunity for growth, i.e., assurance of reward associated with the performance
- Job itself, i.e., the job contents should be challenging and satisfying enough to motivate a person.

- Advancements.

- * Herzberg's contribution to management is the practical application of Maslow's theory of motivation.

- * There is a high degree of correlation between the Maslow's model and the Herzberg's models.

- * The Lower Level needs such as wages, working conditions, etc. are the maintenance factors while the higher level needs such as recognition, status and self-actualization, etc. are the motivating factors.

Q3) ~~Alderfer's ERG Theory~~

→ * Introduction:

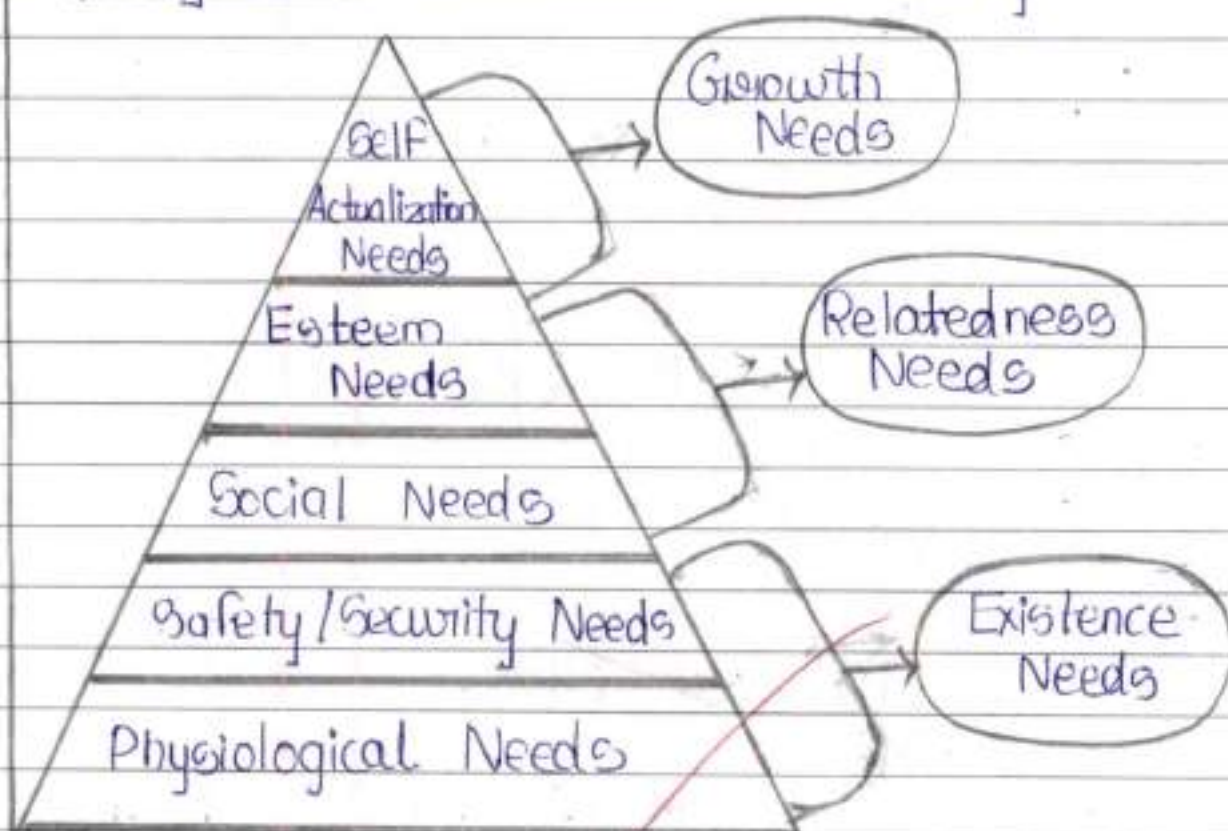

~~Clayton Paul Alderfer~~ was an American psychologist and consultant. Alderfer reformulated the 'Maslow's Need Hierarchy Theory'. The ERG Need Theory developed by Alderfer, condenses the five needs given by Maslow into three needs. The ERG word is derived from the first letters of each of these levels of needs (Existence, Relatedness, and Growth).

a). Existence refers to our concern with basic material existence motivators.

- b). Relatedness refers to the need for maintaining interpersonal relationships.
- c). Growth refers to an intrinsic desire for personal development.

* Diagram :- Alderfer's ERG Theory

* Explanation :-

- a) Existence Needs : Existence needs correlate to Maslow's first two levels. This group of needs is concerned with providing the basic requirements for material existence, such as physiological and safety needs. In a work context, this need is satisfied by money earned in a job for the purchase of food, shelter, clothing, etc.

b). Relatedness Needs : Relatedness needs correlate to Maslow's third and fourth levels. This group of needs focuses on the desire to establish and maintain interpersonal relationships with family, friends, co-workers and employers. This needs includes the need to interact with other people, receive public recognition and feel secure around people.

c). Growth Needs : Growth needs correlate to Maslow's fourth and fifth levels. These needs are about the fulfilment of desires to be creative, productive and to complete meaningful tasks in order to build and enhance a person's self-esteem through personal achievement. In a work context, a person's job, career or profession can provide a significant satisfaction of growth needs.

* Differences :-

ERG theory has three key differences from Maslow's Theory as follows:

a). ERG theory suggests that people can be motivated by needs from more than one level at the same time. There is not necessarily a strict progression from one level to the next.

- b) It acknowledges that the importance of needs varies from person to person and situation to situation. Some people might put a higher value: growth than relationships at certain stages of their lives.
- c) It has a 'frustration-regression element'. This means that if needs remain unsatisfied at one of the higher levels, the person will become frustrated, and go back to pursuing lower levels needs again.

Q4) Douglas McGregor's Theory X and Theory Y.

Theory X	Theory Y
1. Workers dislike to work by themselves.	1. Workers feel that work is as natural as play.
2. Workers are not ready to accept responsibility.	2. Workers are ready to accept responsibility if proper motivation is available to them.
3. Workers prefer to be directed by others.	3. Workers are directed by themselves.

- | | |
|---|---|
| 4. Workers are unambitious. | 4. Workers are ambitious |
| 5. Workers by nature resist change and want security. | 5. Workers are steady to cope up with changes. |
| 6. Workers Lack creativity and fail to solve organisational problems. | 6. Workers have a high degree of creativity and succeed in solving organisational problems. |
| 7. Focus is on the Lower Level needs of workers i.e. physiological and safety | 7. Focus is on both the Lower Level needs and higher Level needs of workers i.e. social, esteem and self actualisation. |
| 8. Strict control is necessary to achieve organisational objectives | 8. Workers exercise self-control & self-direction to achieve organisational objectives. |
| 9. Authority is not delegated. | 9. Authority is delegated. |
| 10. Autocratic Leadership is followed. | 10. Democratic Leadership is followed. |

Q5) Victor Vroom's Expectancy Theory

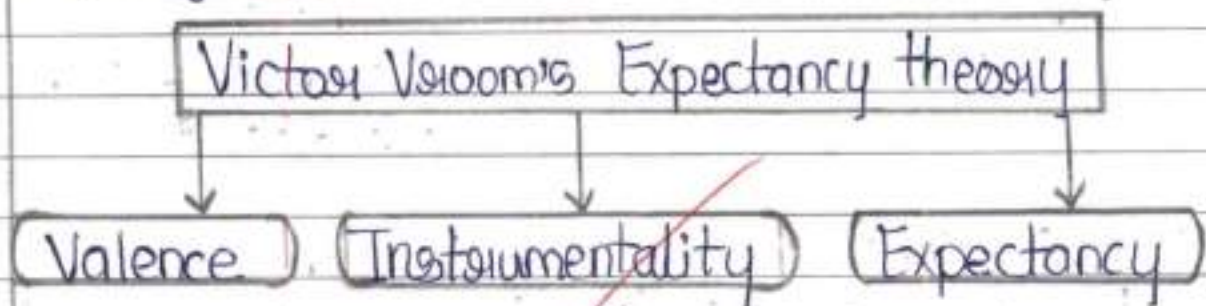

→ * Introduction :

Victor Vroom's Expectancy theory assumes that behaviour results from conscious choices among alternatives whose purpose is to maximize pleasure and minimize pain.

- The key elements to this theory are referred to as following :-

 - 1). Valence (V)
 - 2). Instrumentality (I)
 - 3). Expectancy (E)

* Diagram :-

* Explanation :-

a). Expectancy :-

- * Expectancy refers to the belief that an effort will lead to completion of a task.
- * The value of Expectancy varies between 0 to 1.
- * If an employee sees no change that efforts will lead to the desired performance, the expectancy is zero.

* On the other hand if the employee is confident that the task will be completed, the expectancy has a value of 1.

- Expectancy - belief that one's effort will result in performance.

Low Probability that efforts will lead to performance

High Probability
that efforts will
lead to performance

Ex: Salesman feels that ~~no matter~~ how hard he tries he will not be able to attain the sales target.
he will not put any efforts.

Ex: A salesman will work hard only if he feels that he will be able to attain the sales target.

b). Instrumentality :-

* The Instrumentality refers to the belief that the first level outcome will lead to the second level outcome.

* The value of Instrumentality varies from

- 0 to 1. If an employee sees that promotions are based on performance, instrumentality will be rated high.
- * A low estimate of instrumentality will be made if the employee fails to see such linkage between performance and reward.
- Instrumentality - Performance - Reward Relationship.

c) Valence

- * The term refers to the emotional orientation people hold with respect to outcomes (rewards).
- * Valence may vary from -1 to +1.
- * Valence is negative if the individual prefers not attaining an outcome compared with attaining it.
- * Valence is zero if the individual is indifferent to the outcome.
- * Valence is positive if the individual has the strong preference to the outcome.
- * The Valence of the individual must be positive if motivation were to take place.

• Valence - Attractiveness of goal or outcome
valence can be Positive or Negative

-1

No attraction or preference for the reward

No desire at all for Promotion

0

Indifferent to the reward

If get Promotion
If not, then ok.

+1

Strong attraction or preference for the reward

Strong desire for Promotion

Orgo

We don't use and THROW, we use and GROW!

1.) What We Are and What We Stand For: -

A recent initiative that was thought of just last week, and a thought that was in the works for some time now, Orgo represents the collective brainstorming of two people, Prajoth Rane and Yash Bhalerao, who belong to Third Year batch of BBI of the SIA College of Higher Education. (We are a for-profit initiative)

An idea that is at its infancy, though an idea that has unlimited potential, Orgo is a setup that aims to bring all the recent movement that is happening in the business world and on a larger note, geopolitics, namely being green energy, eco-friendly initiatives, Pradhan Mantri Yojanas (focused upon Reuse, Reduce and Recycle) that are issued in public interest by Ministry of New and Renewable Energy, Government of India (MNRE), ESG policies etc. and converge all these into some specific, niche products for the basic Indian market and an average Indian consumer, and for the betterment of mankind at large.

2.) Objectives: -

Our objectives are plain and simple and will mainly bank upon Sustainability and Zero-Impact solutions. We aim to align our vision with the grand vision of a Atmanirbhar, Green and an ESG-compliant India conjured up by our Hon'ble Prime Minister, Shri. Narendra Modi. To be specific, the current product line (which includes compostable, recyclable and plantable pencils, pens and penholders) will be primarily focusing upon the concept of lesser carbon footprints, lesser emissions (i.e., achieving Net Carbon Neutrality by 2070), and aiming to eventually reduce the usage of wood and plastic in our day-to-day lives.

Additionally, even the Govt. of India has taken due note of the changing circumstances in our world, and keeping in mind, the existing and ever-changing needs, demands, and wants of Indian public, have introduced some new policies in the Indian legislative regime.

To elaborate, India had presented the following five nectar elements (Panchamrit) of India's climate action at the 26th session of the Conference of the Parties (COP26) to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) held recently in Glasgow, United Kingdom in 2021, which were:

- Reach 500 GW Non-fossil energy capacity by 2030.
- 50 per cent of its energy requirements from renewable energy by 2030.
- Reduction of total projected carbon emissions by one billion tonnes from now to 2030.
- Reduction of the carbon intensity of the economy by 45 per cent by 2030, over 2005 levels.
- Achieving the target of net zero emissions by 2070.

3.) Marketing Strategy: -

Our main marketing strategy shall be public broadcasting (i.e., on TV and other handheld devices) but it will also include strategies like influencer marketing (through use of YouTubers, Reelers, etc.), digital/online marketing (LinkedIn, Indeed, social media)

Later, we will also aim for sponsorships to industrial associations like FICCI, CII, ICC and professional associations like ICMAI, ICSI, ICAI, etc. and the various conventions, conferences, summits, etc. that they will hold. This is important as we believe these events will bring us the most revenue out of all strategies.

4.) Target Audience: -

Our product is an "impact product", meaning not only it will have utility and a use-case, but will also serve as a part of a two-pronged effort to spread awareness about certain initiatives, in this case, Going Green, sustainability and the negative consequences of non-biodegradable and non-recyclable products.

Our target market shall be therefore divided in 2 segments, which are: -

- Segment 1: - Parents and their children
- Segment 2: - Industrial associations and bodies, corporate entities, professional bodies and the wider diaspora (stakeholders, society, etc.)

5.) Pricing Strategy/Price Band: -

It shall depend upon how many pencils/pens are we packing in one box/carton.

- In this case, we have wrapped 2 plantable pencils and 3 plantable pens which may cost approx. Rs. 10 per piece and Rs. 15 per piece respectively. These prices are keeping in mind, the per unit cost incurred, competitive prices, and the cost of seeds.
- In case if a customer demands for a "combo", the price shall be approx. Rs. 60 per unit, taking into consideration, logistical, marketing, carrying, and production costs.
- In some cases, the customer is creative and likes to imprint his/her name upon the product, in which case, we offer the option of "customization", where the customer gets to emboss his name in any style, colour, and font and in any quirky and funky manner. Here, the price shall be a bit higher at approx. Rs. 75 per unit, taking into consideration, design costs and tertiary packaging (or special/gift package) costs.
- If the customer likes our penholders, it shall be available to him at price ranges anywhere from approx. Rs. 65-90 per unit, with option of personal customization.
- All in all, the average margins on each type of product lies somewhere between 20-30%.

6.) Product Differentiation: -

Our product is different from other competitors, wherein we strive to provide the best quality of products at competitive rates for consumers. Additionally, we provide the option of "unlimited customization" among the choice of variants which shall suit everyone's tastes, which apart from SproutWorld, a competitor of ours, no one else provides. The one unique thing about our product though is how we are seeking to find true environmental-friendly and "Truly Zero-Impact" solutions for our customers, as we are actively looking for alternatives for lead pencils, plastic refills of pens, etc. This has led us to Charcoal, Ash as substitutes for lead pencils, and to look at Bamboo and Oak wood as alternatives for plastic refills.

Additionally, we also guarantee that whatever plastic we use is 100% recyclable.

7.) Our Future: -

We have a bright future ahead of us, as sooner or later, the world will be Going Green and will keep a keen eye towards corporates to be ESG-compliant and provide environmental-friendly, 100% vegan, and negative carbon footprint-based solutions. Additionally, this industry is also segmented and unorganized, which makes it easier for us to achieve fast growth and the opportunities to acquire several small vendors and unite them under one big roof, so that everyone gets benefitted.

We have a lot of ideas and projects in the pipeline, which includes things like Bioplastic from seaweed, Face masks from algae, Eco-leather from shells, Undersea forests that suck up carbon emissions (using kelp, a form of seaweed, to cool down the oceans), Freshwater from seawater initiatives, donating for adequate green cover in India, collaborating with other corporates with similar objectives (like UltraChhata) to bring more consumer and eco-friendly products to the fore, and many such more exciting things.

8.) The People's Choice: -

Despite being a so-called "infant" in the corporate world, our company is a "first mover", meaning we are quick to adapt and adopt various practices and policies that are established by the government. We are extremely customer-friendly and demand total customer satisfaction, as we believe the customer is king and provide 100% moneyback guarantees if there is a product which doesn't suit a customer's taste. We have also thought of proper categorization of our website into "For Her" and "For Him" sections, which shall further help our customer select products which can suit their tastes. We shall provide a public forum on our website which is to act as a townhall for all customers to talk about their grievances, (if any, shall be redressed as soon as possible) and where the customers can freely talk about their experience, as we are a company who believes in absolute transparency and disclosure. We shall also provide a rating-based system on our website for the sake of our customers, as we believe in fair and just system of knowledge-sharing among customers. Our B2C capability shall help us reach our customers before time, with free shipping features included. Additionally, we have many interesting projects to yet be introduced, as aforementioned. Not to mention, all demands, ideas, and grievances pitched by stakeholders and employees shall be positively met and sufficiently heard, as we believe that in the stakeholder's growth, lies the company's growth.

9.) Closing Remarks: -

By planting a pencil or pen, you're growing more than a new plant, you're helping to grow a green mindset that challenges the norm and that looks at how things can be reused instead of thrown away. It is Origo's guarantee that when you buy a plantable pencil, your pencil meets the highest standards of quality and is non-toxic and sustainably sourced and produced.

ALWAYS REMEMBER, GO CLEAN, GO GREEN WITH ORGO!

Two Vegetable Shops

Two vendors opened their vegetable shops in a small town. One of the vegetable vendors used to grow most of the vegetables that he would sell in his shop. This vendor had his own limitations in growing different varieties of vegetables in his farm. Naturally, he was not in a position to offer all varieties of vegetables that people in the town would love to buy. However, he always used to keep farm-fresh vegetables in his shop. The other vendor always used to get his vegetables from another nearby town and sell them in this town. He used to keep many varieties in his shop. However, the vegetables never used to be as fresh as they were in the first shop. People of the town started visiting both the shops and used to buy vegetables from them. Once, a person rushed to the nearby vegetable shop to buy a particular vegetable. The same was not available there. He next went to the other shop to check whether the vegetable that he wanted to buy for the day was available there. It was available there and the person purchased the same. When the vegetable vendor was busy in weighing and packing the item for the person, he carefully checked other vegetables that were kept there. He could immediately notice that they were not really as fresh as what was available in the first shop he visited. On his way home, he met some of his friends and shared with them his observation. Those friends of this person visited both the shops and confirmed that their friend's observation was correct. Soon, this message spread throughout the town by word of mouth. From then onwards, people started visiting the second shop only when they wanted a particular vegetable that was not sold in the first shop. Otherwise, they always used to buy vegetables only from the first shop. This message of people's selectivity reached the second vendor as well. From then onwards, he started bringing only those vegetables which the first vendor was not able to offer to the people of the town and not whatever used to be available in the first shop. Also, he started offering vegetables at slightly lower prices. The changed situation also changed vegetable buying pattern of the people of the town. People started visiting the second shop also as frequently as they used to visit the first shop because there would always be some people who look for a different variety of vegetable for the day. Soon, the first vendor realised that people of the town would always buy certain vegetables which he was not keeping in his shop. He then decided to buy from one of the nearby places even those vegetables which he was not growing in his farm and started selling them. He, however, knew that most of the people in the town would normally visit him first for their vegetable requirements. Hence, he thought of selling those other vegetables at slightly higher prices. People started buying those vegetables also from his shop. However, soon they realised that they were paying higher price in his shop. Again in no time, people's purchase pattern changed and they started visiting both the shops.

INTRODUCTION

The marketing mix is about putting the right product in the right place, at the right time and the right price. The marketing mix is the set of activities that a company uses to promote its brand or product in the market. All the elements of the marketing mix influence with each other. They lead the company for success. The marketing mix is called as 4P's. The 4P's are for the product market which influence includes price, place, product and promotion.

Marketing mix of KitKat by Nestle. KitKat is a biscuit of wafer that is covered by chocolate. Rowntree of England created it in the year 1935 and later Nestle started its production.

after acquiring the company in the year 1988. KitKat has a universal appeal to every generation and age group.

Product in the Marketing mix of KitKat

The traditional KitKat bar has four fingers with a measurement of 9cm by 1cm. Later a bar of two finger was also introduced that is the company's best selling product till today. The KitKat bars have different number of fingers in accordance with the market.

It starts from the size of half a finger that is available in Japan to a bar of three fingers in Arabia, to the bars of twelve fingers that are available in France and Australia. The bars of Nestle KitKat are sold in various forms of milk, packs, boxes, bags and even individually. "Nestle Kitkat Chunky" was launched in 1999 and "Nestle Kitkat Chunky Peanut Butter" in 2006 in variants such as milk and orange.

Place in the Marketing mix of Kitkat

Nestle Kitkat is produced in at least 21 countries of the world such as Brazil, Canada, UK, Germany, Malaysia etc. and at present is the leading confectionary brand in the global market. It is easily available in nearly one hundred countries of the world. In the year 2010, a new manufacturing line, costing 5 million pounds was opened in York by Nestle. This plant is supposed to produce a billion units of Kitkat every year.

The global team of Nestle Kitkat has developed an intricate network of distributive channels that has the responsibility of ensuring that Nestle Kitkat is available to every interested consumer at whatever place or whenever time

he desires

Numerous market researches show an amazing fact that 60% of the purchases are impulsive buys without any rhyme or reason. Sales of any confectionary product depends on easy availability therefore, the company tries to supply as many as possible variants of its products to maximum number of outlets through its wholesalers and retail channels.

Price in the Marketing mix of Kitkat

Nestle Kitkat has a very strong image of its brand name and in this competitive market this image allows the company some flexibility in executing its pricing policy. However, in order to increase the volume and maintain its loyal customers. Nestle Kitkat has resolved to maintain a low and fair pricing policy.

The starting prices of the Kitkat product remain unchanged at INR 5, along with its quality, even if the quality has been reduced. The customers then do not feel very unhappy with the company as they also realize the effects of rising economy. The stability in the pricing policy has been a major factor in the maintenance of sales of this brand. The company's policy has proved to be a boon for them.

Promotions in the Marketing mix of Kitkat

The packaging of Nestle Kitkat is very distinctive and is done in white and red colored wrapper. Course: Indian Ethos in Management

Date: 08 February, 2023

Summary

The case study session on Kayem Pharmaceuticals was held on 8th Feb, 2023. A total of 27 students were present during the session.

In this case study, we discussed the moral dilemma faced by the proprietor of Kayem Pharmaceuticals in the light of principles of Indian Ethos in Management. The concepts of Nishkama Karma, Purusharthas, Divinity in Man, and practices of Holistic management and Value based management as espoused by Indian Ethos were discussed.

Further, the perspectives of both the 'actors' in the case study were studied so as to get an all rounded view of the situation, that would lead to better decision making.

Key Principles

The key principles of Indian Ethos in Management related to the case study include:

- Nishkama Karma: 'Desireless Action,' The concept of Nishkama Karma states that a person should perform an action without expectation of rewards or fruits. As human beings, we have authority or 'adhikar' only over our actions/efforts and not towards the results of that action.
- Purusharthas & Dharma: Every action of an individual should be guided by the first Purushartha - Dharma or Righteousness. Thus Artha and Kama are the goals of a 'Man' or 'Purusha' but they should be attained through righteous means.
- Value Based Management: Value based management as espoused by Indian ethos means, Values should be the guiding compass while making business decision rather than 'preyas' or short term goals.
- Divinity in Man: Every human being is divine. There is a spark of divine and an immense potential to become God like in every human being.

Discussion

The case study discussion was lively and engaging. Students were able to apply the concepts they had learned in class to the case study scenario. They also discussed the various aspects of the dilemma faced by the proprietor of Kayem Pharmaceuticals in the light of Indian Ethos in Management.

Case Study

NEW DELHI, India — In 2010, the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services sent an email to a small, unknown, Indian pharmaceutical company in Mumbai, Kayem Pharmaceuticals. Navneet Verma, 54, the company's owner, was overjoyed: "I was happy to have the opportunity to do business with the United States," he recalls. The department in Nebraska was looking for sodium thiopental — an anesthetic — considered one of the world's "essential drugs" by the World Health Organization.

At the time Verma's company was already supplying sodium thiopental to Angola, and the offer from the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services (NDCS) was an opportunity to boost revenue. "I offered the drug to the Nebraska prison at approximately $2 a vial," he says. "It was profitable for me as I was spending less than a dollar to manufacture it. I knew it was going to a prison but I did not know why." What Verma was unaware of was that sodium thiopental was the top choice among three drugs commonly used in lethal injections for death row prisoners in the United States. The NDCS commissioned 500 vials of the drug from Verma's company. Death penalty experts in the US say Nebraska corrections purchased enough sodium thiopental to execute 166 prisoners. "They try to use new kinds of drugs and experiment with them — it greatly increases the risk that they could harm someone."

Lethal injection is the most common method of execution in America since 1977. Out of 32 states with death penalty in 2014, 21 of them use only lethal injection. However, the number of states that actually use death penalty has decreased. States have the choice of how they execute and where they get the drugs from. American drug companies don't make a certain drug called sodium thiopental anymore and the EU has banned it from being exported to the US to prevent it from being used in executions. This is why orders for the drug started coming in from India.

Verma says he was shocked to learn how his company's drug was being used. In early 2011, the director of a British-based anti-capital punishment group called Reprieve, Clive Stafford Smith, wrote him and accused him of being "an accessory to the death of prisoners in the US." He says the group threatened to destroy Kayem Pharmaceuticals.

And so he began questioning doing business with the US. "Obviously I don't want to be an accessory to state sponsored killing" When the Department of Correctional Services in South Dakota got in touch with him in January 2012, he upped the drug's price, thinking that the department would simply decline.

"I told them they can have it at $20 a vial to dissuade them from buying the drug, so they would find another supplier," said Verma. Surprisingly, they accepted his offer, and wired the payment right away. Confronted with a huge profit opportunity and not wanting to reverse his offer, he relented, sending 500 vials to South Dakota. (It turns out that the state was later barred from using the 2012 shipment, due to an unrelated US court decision pertaining to imported pharmaceuticals. It could potentially import the drug again, with FDA approval.) After that, he decided to stop sending the drug to the US — a move that has made it more difficult to carry out executions.

"I had to make a choice between losing business or losing my conscience...I chose the former." Verma accuses corrections authorities of hiding how they used his drug. "Obviously I don't want to be an accessory to state sponsored killing," he says. "I am a staunch Hindu and as such believe in the philosophy of karma — what goes around comes around." Maya Foa, strategic director of the death penalty team at Reprieve in London, says that in many cases, departments of corrections lie to Indian companies about the use of these drugs. Others agree.

The secrecy has to stop, says Verma, who adds that the experience has taught him to look more carefully at whom he is supplying and what they are doing with his product. "I was excited by the idea of being the sole supplier of the drug to the US, and did not realize how disastrous my actions were," Verma says. "Anyway, it's not like the process of making sodium thiopental is rocket science — it's the easiest drug to make. But I realized later that US companies had stopped manufacturing it because it was being used in lethal injections." "I had to make a choice between losing business or losing my conscience," he adds. "I chose the former."

Questions:

- a. Assuming you are Mr. Verma, justify your objections to this particular business deal, highlighting concepts from Indian Ethos in Management.
- b. Bring out the importance of value based management.
- c. You are an Indian consultancy hired by Nebraska Department of Correctional Services to negotiate with Mr. Verma. What arguments from Indian Ethos will you use to convince Mr. Verma to sell the chemical compound?
